The screenshot displays a Windows desktop environment. In the background, a code editor (likely Visual Studio) is open, showing a C# script. The script is titled 'WebApplication1' and contains logic for user authentication and session management. A red rectangular box highlights a section of the code, specifically the 'else' block of a conditional statement. Overlaid on the right side of the screen is a yellow sticky note with the following text:

- Audio Konferenzen
- Text Konferenzen
- geteilter Arbeitsplatz

Audio Konferenzen

The screenshot displays a development environment with three main windows:

- Skype Chat Window: Shows a conversation with 'wuxin'. The chat history includes messages like 'bitte#', 'ok', and 'def create_new_notification(request):'. The contact list on the left includes 'Andreas Kostyrka', 'H-P. Kom', 'marovanwoerkoem', 'Mark [ex.pure]', 'Robert Thomson', 'Skype Test Call', 'Achim Heger', 'Alex', 'borjana', 'Brigitte', and 'DER Juhu'.
- Code Editor (ecsdev): Displays Python code for a notification system. The code includes imports for 'md5', 'Notification', and 'NotificationForm', and defines a 'create_new_notification' function.
- Terminal Window (sharing@ecsdev): Shows the output of a Django management command. It lists installed apps: 'django.contrib.auth', 'django.contrib.contenttypes', 'django.contrib.sessions', 'django.contrib.sites', 'django_extensions', 'django.contrib.admin', and 'south'. It also shows the output of 'python manage.py migrate'.

Arrows indicate the integration of these tools: one arrow points from the text box to the Skype chat window, and another points from the text box to the terminal window. A third arrow points from the text box to the code editor window.
